> Indict Them. New York Herald, 13th.

The juvenile pages around the Capitol at Washington were called on recently to contribute out of their slender earnings toward the Republican campaign fund. If a great party in any country or any age ever before picked pence from the pockets of children for political purposes, history has failed to record it. It seems, however, that the machine managers of the party are determined this year to levy policical blackmail upon every one who holds a position under it. A circular has just been sent to every employe of the Boston Navy Yard-seven hundred in number-in which the F. J. TURNBULL, 234 Main. 871 Secretary of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee says: "Under the circumstances in which the country finds itself placed the committee believes that you will esteem it both a privilege and a favor to make to its fund a contribution which, it is hoped, may not be less than — dollars." The day laborer who received the document from which the preceding is an extract has the sum of eleven dollars set opposite his name, and in case of others the scale rises in the ratio of their wages or salaries. There is a Federal law prohibiting political assessments under severe penalties, and our courts have recently convicted a person charged with its violation. Uannot Boston follow up the good work? It is true that in the circular in question an attempt is made to evade the law. The letter is observed, the spirit is broken. There may be no way of punishing the Secretary of the Congressional Campaign Committee, but even "a failure of justice" after an effort to enforce it would be

Since the beginning of the month we have been printing the interesting reports of different institutions all over the country, and our readers cannot have failed to notice that the young gentlemen who are to be let losse upon the Republic are, at least in their own opinion, fully com-petent to deal with all the vexatious problems which are so much of a puzzle and a mystery to the present generation. In learned and eloquent essays the most intricate and difficult questions of finance, labor, constitutional history and law are tossed off in the airiest manner. College professors give loud applause and devoted parents bestow enthusiastic approval. We have no desire to dampen the ardor of youth, but it is just as well to remind our young on between Mr. Longfellow and myfriends that the real battle of life begins as soon as the doors of alma mater close behind them. What they may have learned there is only training for the struggle that is to come. If they have acquired habits of study and self-restraint, if they have been inspired with high ambition, their success in the future will depend upon the way in which they build upon the foundations that have been laid. Their first duty to themselves and to the country is to go to work-to do the first thing that comes to hand and let the future take care of itself. An educated idler is the worse foe of po-
